

LITERARY NOTES.

The scene of "Patty's Perverses," the new Round Robin novel, is laid in Boston and a New-England village.

A new periodical for young people will appear in Boston September 1. The chosen title, Youth and Pleasure, doesn't commend itself as the best that might be selected.

Dr. Schliemann has published an account of his recent journey of exploration through the Troad and the Ida Mountains in a pamphlet issued by Brockhaus, of Leipzig. He claims to have discovered the altar of Zeus.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, according to The Boston Courier, is engaged upon the libretto of an operetta for which Mr. Adamowski will furnish the music. Mrs. Howe has in her work the assistance of Mr. Joseph Bradford, who has a practical knowledge of stage business.

A new life of Lessing, in three volumes, has been announced by Herr Johannes Claassen, who has studied the author's life and his works with reference to the teachings of Christianity. The first part of a "Life of Eva Lessing," the wife of the author of "Laokoon," has been published by Herr Richard Thiel.

Herr Edward Hallberger, the founder and publisher of the leading German weekly, Ueber Land und Meer, of Stuttgart, died recently, leaving an enormous property which he had amassed by his own industry and business sagacity. He started in business in 1847, and was fifty-nine when he died. He had his own paper mills, binding and printing establishments, which with the "good will" of his periodicals have been purchased by three banking houses in Frankfort-on-the-Main and Stuttgart for four million marks, or a round million of dollars. The purchasers pay, besides, $250,000 for stock, etc. Hallberger built dwellings and dining-rooms for his employees, and was in an unusual degree their benefactor.

Mr. Kwong Ki Chir's "Dictionary of English Phrases" has sold so well that a second edition has already been called for. The Athenaeum recently gave the Chinese scholar this generous praise:

"Had the volume been the composition of an English scholar, one to whom most, if not all, of the phrases and expressions here gathered together were as familiar as household words, it would reflect no little credit on his industry, patience and carefulness. Viewed even merely as a collection of idiomatic phrases, it would be difficult to overrate its merits; but the reflection that it is the work not of an English but of a Chinese scholar, one of a nation so widely differing from our own in every particular, while it increases their wonder, is surely one to cause thoughtful men to pause and ponder."

The "Mulsanne Holiday" Scribner will be ready to-day. For a frontispiece it has a fine engraving of Ulysse Batini's "Sailor's Wife" and another full-page engraving of great excellence is a reproduction of Bastien-Lepage's "First Communion." It is hardly a work which will appeal to the multitude, but those who fully appreciate it can claim full membership in "the new movement." It is among the illustrations of Miss Mary G. Loring's paper, "By the Sea in Normandy," meaning Etretat. There is also a most inviting article on Newport by Susan Conudge, entitled, "The Isle of Peaces." An effort to cool August readers through their imagination is made by publishing at this time a description of "Ice Yachting on the Hudson." Mr. E. C. Stedman contributes the first of a series of papers on "Poetry in America," a well-timed subject in good hands. Three or four pages are given to the "Songs of Nature" of a new writer of verse, Mr. Roger Riordan, the artist, who is his own illustrator. Mr. Boyesen's new novella, "Queen Titania," is begun. It is the story of a waif in New-York society. One of the most noteworthy articles in the number is "Robert Fulton's Experiments in Submarine Gunnery," printed in word and letter from the inventor's unpublished manuscripts.
